Combined Carrier's Liability insurance

Three tiers of protection for transport industry operators under one policy

Do you have clients in the business of moving goods from A to B? Do your clients need comprehensive protection for the goods they are carrying – including not only lost or damaged goods, but also claims for consequential loss?

Our Comprehensive Combined Carriers policy can help you meet the needs of those clients because it offers three tiers of protection for transport industry operators under one policy.

Tier one – Comprehensive Goods cover

The policy covers the following losses caused by accident or by the deliberate act of a third party:

- Loss of or damage to the insured's own equipment (with a sub-limit of $5,000 for any one incident, following an insured event)
- The costs and expenses incurred in re-securing the goods where there has been movement in transit – even where there may be no claim resulting from the incident (subject to a sub-limit of $5,000 on any one incident)
- Loss of or damage to packaging while goods are in transit (if caused by an insured event and subject to a limit of $50,000 for any one incident).

Tier two – Consequential Loss

Liberty's Comprehensive Combined Carriers policy adds a crucial optional tier of cover, protecting your transport industry clients from the often large and complex claims arising out of a consequential loss. The policy covers both delay and any "loss of market" that arises from physical loss and or damage to the goods caused by any of the events insured under Part One: Comprehensive Goods cover (up to a sub-limit of $100,000).

Tier three – Legal Liability

Our policy also provides cover for all sums the insured or the insured's sub-contractors become legally liable to pay as compensation (under the insured's terms and conditions for carriage for goods) including consequential loss up to the sum insured.
